R. I. Celebrates 70th Anniversary

70 YEARS OF SERVICE MADE A BIG EVENT

Tuesday, October 10th, 1922, was one of the biggest days in the history of the Rock Island railroad since the first train was run from Chicago to Joliet, 70 years ago.

A special train, re-enacting the first "run" from Chicago to Joliet, was run on the time of the first train, and on board of this train were some of the old-timers who rode on the first train. The "special" ran through all the towns en route from Chicago to Joliet. Every station was beautifully decorated with bunting and flags, and the school children of each town appeared at the station, waving flags as the train steamed by. A moving picture apparatus was placed on the rear coach, and the scenes at the various stations were filmed, and will thus be preserved to many future generations.

The depots at Blue Island, Midlothian, Oak Forest, Tinley Park, Mokena, New Lenox and Joliet bloomed forth in a riot of colors, and a real festive spirit permeated the air.

At Joliet, the end of the run, a huge boulder, brought from Colorado, was unveiled with ceremonies in the Court House square, in honor of S. B. Reed, civil engineer, who surveyed the first Rock Island line in Illinois. A tablet on the boulder bears the inscription to the memory of the man so honored.

The citizens of Joliet joined in the celebration at the unveiling of the monument. In addition to this, an interesting program was carried out.

Another feature of the celebration was the planting of trees in memory of some former employee. At Blue Island a memorial tree in honor of E. H. Whited, the first ticket agent of the Rock Island railroad in Chicago, was planted on Tuesday, October 10th. On the same day, another tree was planted at Midlothian, in honor of John Riddle, first president. At the foot of each tree was placed a concrete marker, bearing a bronze tablet with the following inscription:

"1852-Rock Island Lines-1922: Seventieth Anniversary, October 10. The memorial tree planted nearby is dedicated by the Rock Island in affectionate memory of (name of former employee), who, by his industry, courage and loyalty through every vicissitude signally aided in the development of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway into a great trans-

M. E. Conference Appoints Pastors

The following pastors have been assigned by the Princeton Conference to the following M. E. churches in this section:

Blue Island, W. H. Ake; Orland, M. H. Neumeyer; Midlothian, C. R. Fosmire; Oak Forest, Edward Grimms; Tinley Park, Elmer D. Palmer; Frankfort, Glen Dunbar; New Lenox, A. W. Hamilton; Mokena, Roy Magnus.

Peculiar Street Accident at Tinley

While driving his car thru town, Saturday afternoon, Harold Bettenhausen ran over the edge of a plank where the huge flagpole formerly stood, causing almost a serious accident. The plank came up with such velocity that it broke the glass door in the car and considerably frightened and scratched up Mr. Harold Bettenhausen.

Upon investigation, the plank had been put there to enable people in crossing the road, which, through the heavy rain, had formed a considerable amount of water on the dug-up road which is now under construction to be connected.

portation system devoted to the public service."

In the evening the Rock Island employees of Blue Island held a meeting at Masonic hall, where a radio relayed the Chicago program to them.

Every employee was presented with a beautiful historic medal for the auspicious event. The medal shows the Mississippi river bridge, a train of 1852 and a modern train of 1922. The medal also shows a figure of Lincoln. On the reverse side appears the Rock Island monogram, with the words, "70th Anniversary, 1852-1922."

The Rock Island Magazine for October gives the full history of the Rock Island railroad. It is very interesting. In the history of the opening of the Rock Island road a paragraph appears showing how anxious the residents of Blue Island, Mokena and Joliet were to have the road opened to traffic, and how they brought pressure to bear on the officials of the road to hurry along the work.

Five of the oldest employees in the passenger service of the Rock Island railroad composed the crew for the special train run between Chicago and Joliet. The fireman, Edward J. Werthmiller, was a former Mokena man, and is a cousin of Julius, Charles and Frank Hirsch of Mokena. He has been in the employ of the Rock Island since 1882.

Brisbane Gets Power Line and $100,000 Plant to Operate Soon

The Public Service Co. has just completed their new power and light line to Brisbane, where juice is furnished the Western Union pole yards. This is going to be one of the biggest plants in this part of Will county. The plant is to be used in treating telegraph and telephone poles with creosote to preserve them against the weather and to increase their durability. The plant will be in the $100,000 class, and will be a big boom to New Lenox township, inasmuch as it will mean much taxable property, and will offset the loss sustained by the abandonment of the old trolley line.

The pole yards will afford much employment, and will be a big factor in building up Brisbane, and, in fact, it may bring more people out here, so that, in course of time, Brisbane will outclass New Lenox in number of population.

The farmers along the new power and light line are also having the opportunity of getting current on their farms. J. R. Bentley, one of the progressive farmers of this section, has not been slow in taking advantage of the opportunity afforded, and is having both his properties wired for current.

Being located on the Wabash and "J" roads, the pole yards have ideal shipping facilities, and will undoubtedly develop into a real big business proposition.

Bazaar November 8th

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Mokena M. E. church are making preparations for their big Bazaar, to be held at the Hatch hall, on November 8th. All kinds of articles suitable for Christmas gifts will be on sale. There will be a big variety of things to choose from, and there will be many pretty booths containing these displays. A supper will also be served.

An all-day session was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Hall to make preparations for the coming bazaar. Everyone is invited to attend the bazaar and supper.

TO BEGIN WORK ON NEW LENOX ROAD SOON

Actual work on the Lincoln highway job, linking up a six-mile gap of New Lenox to the red mill, was scheduled to start this week, according to the announcement of James Bannon, the contractor.

Bannon promised to have a gang of workmen on the road building project early in the week. The grading work for the six-mile stretch may be completed before the weather conditions stop progress.

G. J. D. Starmann, A. F. Lambert and W. W. North, members of the Board of Supervisors' committee engaged in securing the right-of-way for the road, have been asked to secure the land necessary for the installation of a subway under the Rock Island tracks, east of the red mill.

The property, required by the State, is owned by Senator Richard J. Barr, Harlow Higinbotham and the Westphal estate.

Women To Perfect County Organization

Mrs. Henry Sawyer of Joliet has asked Mrs. Cora M. Maue of Mokena to appoint a committee of women who are Republican to meet with other representative women of the county at the court house, Saturday, October 14th, at 2 p. m. Mrs. O'Neill, candidate for representative, will be there, and an effort is to be made to organize a permanent recognized organization of Republican women of Will county. There are no dues, and the work is usually just a social urging of women to take advantage of their rights of citizenship. Mrs. Maue has extended an invitation to a number of women of Mokena and vicinity to attend the meeting referred to.

GOODINGS GROVE BAZAAR

Don't forget to attend the "Bazaar and Supper" Oct. 14th to be given by the St. Michaels church in the Woodman hall at Goodings Grove.

Educational Meeting Held At Orland

Orland Park School and High School and district schools gave an educational meeting in the Orland Woodman Hall, Wednesday evening. Each school gave a number of songs, drills and plays. Several speakers gave an interesting talk to the audience. After the meeting cake and ice cream were sold, $28 being made from the sale of refreshments.

Cutting Down Orland Hill for Concrete Road

The work on Orland Hill west of Orland is progressing rapidly, the east side of the hill is cut down entirely; but the hill is impassable at present, but most of the people drive the roundabout way, or thru Smith's field just north of the hill. The dirt that is cut away is hauled to the bottom of the hill to fill up the ditches and to widen the road for the future pavement.

R. M. Cooper of Orland To Put on Piano Sale

R. M. Cooper, Orland's well known merchant, is going to put on a very enterprising and progressive merchandising scheme by way of a line of high grade pianos, phonographs, etc., which he is putting in now, and on which he will have a special sale, beginning Saturday. Read his advertisement in this issue of the News-Bulletin. Pianos, phonographs, etc., will be sold at astonishingly low prices for such high grade goods as will be offered.

Miss Francis Keuch Enters Marshall Field Employ

Miss Francis Keuch, who has been clerking at the J. C. Funk store in Tinley Park, has accepted a position with Marshall Field in Chicago. ## GATHER IN WHEAT

Farmers of Western Canada Rejoice at Harvest.

Largest Crop in the History of the Fertile Provinces May Be Considered Assured.

Reports of Western Canada's wheat crop, which may be considered fairly accurate, as they are made at the end of the season, when the crop is fully harvested, would indicate a yield of between 350,000,000 and 370,000,000 bushels from a total acreage of 21,471,000. This is the greatest yield in the history of the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. This immense yield has only been harvested through the combined energies of all public bodies—railways and governments. It required the assistance, outside of that locally employed, of upward of 40,000 men. These were brought into the country from the East, the West and the South, by trainloads, and rushed forward at express speed, to be placed in the different districts, under the direction, by wire, of the needs.

As a result of this combined effort the largest wheat crop in the history of the West was successfully harvested. The threshing reports show that almost universally, in every section of the country, the grain graded high. In very few places did rain interfere with stacking. The province of Manitoba was the first to complete threshing, very few fields being left at the time of writing.

Portions of Saskatchewan that had suffered from drought for the past two or three years reaped a crop that largely made up for past disappointments.

In Alberta there was a strange condition. In the central district, always noted for its heavy yields, there was considerable of a falling off. Instead of the 35 and 40 bushel yields the average ran from 10 to 12, while in southern portions, where drought had affected the country for some time past, there were exceptionally high yields.

Reports of individual yields in different portions of the three provinces lead to the impression that when threshing returns are in there will be found to have been a much better crop than at present seems possible. Some of these returns give individual farmers as getting as high as 45 bushels others 35, and so on, while in some districts, where in early August not more than 8 or 10 bushels might be looked for, 15 and 18 bushels are recorded, the improvement having been brought about by rains that worked marvels in the appearance of the crop. And then, too, instead of the head carrying four rows, most of them carried six rows, and filled to the top, which, to those who know, means at least fifty per cent more.

The rye crop of all Western Canada is exceptionally good; the oats generally good and barley fair.

The weather at the time of writing is threatening for a rainy spell, which may interfere with threshing, and prolong it somewhat.

Most of the newcomers from the States have excellent crops. During August, the trains to Western Canada carried hundreds of capitalists and others interested in Western Canada land, going up to take care of the crop that they had arranged to have put in on the land they owned. Very few of them will be disappointed.—Advertisement.

HONEYCOMB COILS IN CONVERTING RECEIVER

Third Regenerative Circuit Arrangement Is by Electrostatic Coupling.

In making a receiving set over into a regenerative circuit, the DeForest honeycomb coils are very well adapted to a circuit arrangement as shown in Figure N. One coil is used as a primary, a second coil as a secondary, and a third as a tickler or plate inductance.

When mounted in a set the secondary is placed in the center and the primary and tickler coils on the outside in such a manner that the coupling between the primary and the secondary can be varied.

The greatest advantage derived from the use of honeycomb coils is the ability to cover the entire range of wave length with very small dead-end losses. With the same receiving set the coils used for receiving long wave trans-Atlantic stations can be plugged out, a smaller set of coils plugged in, and amateur stations picked up efficiently.

This ability tends to make this particular type of receiver the closest approach to a universal wave length receiver that can be made.

The regenerative circuit arrangements already shown feed back from the plate circuit to the grid circuit in one of two ways: First, conductively, as in the circuit called the DeForest Ultra-Audion circuit, and second, by inductive coupling as in the circuit which makes use of the tickler coil. There is a third method of coupling—electrostatic, by which the circuits between which the energy is to be transferred are connected by condensers.

In a circuit in which the energy is small and the frequency is high, that is, short wave length, the coupling condenser need be of only a very small capacity. The elements of a vacuum tube have a capacity with respect to each other. Some of the most efficient of the short wave regenerative receivers used today depend on the capacity between the elements of the vacuum tube to furnish the necessary electrostatic capacity between the plate and the grid circuits to feed energy from one of these circuits to the other.

Figure O shows a simple single tube regenerative receiver for short wave work that depends on the electrostatic capacity between the elements of the tube for the coupling between the plate and grid circuits. A variometer "A" in the antenna circuit is used for tuning. Another variometer "B" in series with the plate is used for tuning the plate circuit to the same natural period as that of the received signal. This circuit is sometimes called the tuned plate circuit method of regeneration.

There are two tuned oscillating circuits in the receiver. One tuned circuit consists of the variometer "A" with the capacity of the grid to filament of the tube across it. The other tuned circuit consists of the variometer "B" with the capacity of the plate to filament across it. These two circuits are in turn electrostatically coupled to each other by the capacity between the grid and the plate.

A receiver of the type shown in Figure O is very efficient, because there are no untuned circuits. In addition the energy sent back from the plate circuit to the grid circuit compensates for the losses in the circuits. This results in very high amplification.

Though the adjustment of a set of this type is rather critical, especially the amount of inductance in the plate circuit, but two knobs are necessary to control the tuning and the amount of regeneration. With a good antenna and a circuit of the general arrangements of that shown in the diagram, an amateur can get excellent results. Any of the standard variometers on the market can be used for the grid and plate variometers "A" and "B."

For those who wish to build a set of this type, a more detailed diagram of connections is shown in Figure P. The antenna series condenser is one of the 21-plate size. An "A" battery potentiometer is shown in the circuit for those who wish to use a soft detector tube.

ELECTRICAL SHOP AND RADIO

Establishment That Does General Electrical Work Has Big Advantage Over Others.

One of the strongest arguments possessed by the electrical store selling radio supplies is the expert service it can offer, says Burton Millar, in a comprehensive article in Radio Merchandising. All sorts and descriptions of apparatus and parts can be put in stock by any store in any line of business and that is exactly what is being done in every city in the country, but the establishment which makes a specialty of doing general electrical work—wiring for light, power, etc., and carrying a stock of electrical goods of every sort—has a distinct advantage over the store which added a radio department to other lines of merchandise entirely different in character.

It is virtually important, however, that the availability of this expert service be broadcast to the field it is desired to reach. Publicity is the only thing that will do it. The public must be told. Not once, but repeatedly, and in every possible way.

It is not enough to have a card in the display window announcing: "Our electrical experts will be glad to give you any information or assistance in installing or operating your radio outfit." Or to run an occasional small ad in the local newspapers. Or to have a car card in the local street cars. Or to distribute small folders through the mails to a local list.

All of these methods are good—if you keep persistently at it! There is no single quality of advertising so absolutely essential as persistence. If you do not concede this you are simply ignoring the experience of all successful advertisers of all time.

If the radio department is to be built up and made a substantial part of your store's business it is essential that the public be told where it can find this superior service, tested apparatus and expert counsel.

TIPS TO THE RADIOIST

A talk given recently at Schenectady by Dr. Marconi was enjoyed by a crowd of 3,000 persons who had assembled in Washington park, Albany, for the purpose.

On the Pacific coast preference in time for broadcasting is to be given to the stations having the greatest efficiency and therefore able to serve the greatest number of people.

Rubber is very useful material in radio work. You will find rubber stoppers to bottles make excellent knobs or tips to electrodes, adjusting rods, etc., and that block or sheet rubber is very useful as an insulator in many places; but if you have ever tried to cut rubber with a knife you will know how hard it is to make a neat, smooth, straight cut. But if you use a sharp knife and keep the rubber wet with cold water, or out it under water, you will find that it cuts like cheese.

A radio university, placing higher education within the reach of all, is now considered but a matter of time. The future educational possibilities of radio seem to be limited only by the co-operation of the people.

LESSON FOR OCTOBER 15

THE MINISTRY OF JOHN THE BAPTIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:1-22. GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand.—Matt. 3:2. REFERENCE MATERIAL—Matt. 11:2-19; Phil. 2:6-11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—What John Said About Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John Preaching and Baptizing.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Fearless Reformer.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Repentance: What It Is and What It Does.

I. The Degeneracy of the Times (vv. 1, 2).

The Jews had sunk to a very low level of civil, moral and religious life. Luke carefully enumerates the civil and religious rulers in order to show the profligacy of the times, and therefore the need of a messenger to call the people back to God and virtue. Herod, the son of the Great, was a murderer. Annas and Caiaphas were corrupt ecclesiastical rulers.

II. The Nature of John's Ministry (vv. 3-6).

In the wilderness he underwent a discipline which fitted him for his task. Out of the wilderness he flashed forth preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins (v. 3). This ministry is declared to be a fulfillment of Isaiah's prophecy. The message was described as one calling upon the nation to prepare for the coming of the Messiah. This preparation was presented under the figure of a monarch of the East about to make a journey. A servant was sent before to prepare the highway. Valleys needed to be filled, mountains and hills needed to be lowered, crooked places needed to be made straight and rough places needed to be made smooth. Today before the nations will receive Christ the valleys need to be filled with righteous deeds, the exceeding high mountains of sin and iniquity need to be brought low, the crooked dealings of the business world must be straightened out, and the rough ways of nations and individuals must be smoothed out. Men must repent of their sins before they can receive Christ.

III. The Content of John's Message (vv. 7-18).

1. Denunciation of Sin (vv. 7, 8). He called them "a generation of vipers." This shows that he charged them with deceitfulness and wickedness. Knowing the subtle hypocrisy of these Jews, he demanded evidence of their sincerity—the genuineness of their repentance was to be demonstrated by their works.

2. Announcement of Judgment (v. 9). He declared that the axe was laid at the root of the tree and that the tree not bringing forth fruit was to be hewn down and cast into the fire. John made it very plain that for their sins they should be called into judgment. Paul's preaching of a judgment to come made Felix tremble (Acts 24:25).

3. Instructions to the Inquirers (vv. 10-14). (1) The people (vv. 10, 11). Each man was to turn from his besetting sin and show love and kindness to his fellow men. Clothing and food were to be given those who had need. They were to turn from a life of selfishness and greed and do unto others as they would be done by. (2) Publicans (vv. 12, 13). These tax-gatherers who were guilty of greed and oppression were not asked to give up their occupation, but to exact only that which was appointed by law. (3) The soldiers (v. 14). These were likely the policemen of that day—at least men on military duty. He told them to extort money from no man, to accuse none falsely, and to be content with their wages. To all these classes he made it clear that they should henceforth perform their duty from a motive of love instead of selfishness and greed.

4. Testimony to Jesus (vv. 15-18). The people were musing in their hearts as to whether John was indeed the Messiah. When John perceived this he with fine humility declared that his mission was so lowly in comparison with Christ's that he would be unworthy to perform the menial act of a slave in loosing the latchet of His shoes. John baptized with water, but Christ, he declared, would baptize with the Holy Ghost and with fire.

IV. John's Imprisonment (vv. 19, 20). Because of his reproof of Herod for his wicked lewdness and other sins John went to the dungeon. The preacher of righteousness must become a martyr. God's faithful prophets are usually despised by the world, even cast into prison, burned, or beheaded.

Idleness.

Idleness is the gate of all harms. An idle man is like a house that hath no walls; the devils may enter on every side.—Chaucer.

Life's Ills.

To Learn to Pray.

He that will learn to pray, let him go to sea.—Herbert.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

(©, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Adherence to radical doctrines means the ultimate breaking down of the old sturdy virtues of manhood and womanhood, the insidious destruction of character, the weakening of the moral fiber of the individual, the destruction of the foundations of civilization.—Coolidge.

GOOD THINGS FOR EVERYBODY

A good rabbit touches the spot after a hike, row or an afternoon in the auto. Take two cupfuls of tomato, one cupful of grated cheese, one green pepper chopped or one pimento (canned), one slice of onion, two tablespoonfuls of butter and two eggs. Mix tomatoes, cheese, pepper and onion. Melt butter and add this mixture. Stir until heated and the cheese is melted. When hot add the well-beaten eggs slowly and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Serve hot on toast or wafers.

Tomato Jelly Salad.—Take one envelope of gelatin and soften in one-half cupful of cold water. Stew a can of tomatoes with one-half an onion, one-half a bay leaf, two cloves, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of cayenne, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar; after cooking five minutes strain, reheat and add the softened gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Turn into a large mold and chill. Remove from the mold to a bed of lettuce and garnish with dressing.

Mt. Vernon Salad.—To the tomato jelly above, add one cupful of chopped celery, one cupful of chopped apple and one cupful of coarsely broken nuts. Mould in small cups and turn out on lettuce. Serve with a highly-seasoned mayonnaise which may be colored red.

Heart Sandwiches.—Bake a white cake in a sheet, cut in heart-shaped pieces, split and put together with a slice of brick ice cream. Cover with a thick whipped cream or a marshmallow; whip with raspberries or jelly as a garnish.

Sponge Dainty.—Make a sponge cake or plain white cake mixture and bake in two round layer cake pans. Prepare butter, icing and spread between the layers and on the outside of the cake. Press the remainder of the icing through a pastry tube, in any design. Score the cake in pieces for serving.

Virginia Beaten Biscuit.—Take one quart of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two-thirds of a cup of fat and one cupful of sweet milk. Rub into the flour the salt and fat, and milk, then beat for fifteen minutes or put twice through the meat grinder. Bake in a moderate oven.

A FEW SALADS AND DESSERTS

The eating of vegetables in every form is a habit to be cultivated and with a nicely-seasoned salad dressing, the habit is a good one, easily acquired.

Cucumber Jelly Salad.—Dissolve one tablespoonful of gelatin in one and one-fourth cupfuls of water, add one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt and a dash of paprika. Let the mixture stand until it begins to thicken, add one cupful of diced cucumber, one-fourth of a cupful of green pepper and one teaspoonful of onion juice. Turn the mixture into molds, chill and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Beet Celery and Pea Salad.—Take two cupfuls of diced, cooked beets, one cupful of finely cut celery, one cupful of cooked peas drained, one tablespoonful of minced onion, one tablespoonful of horseradish sauce, salt and paprika. Marinate the vegetables with French dressing and let them stand for two hours. Serve on lettuce with a boiled dressing or with mayonnaise.

Rice and Pea Salad.—Fill small greased molds half full of seasoned cooked green peas. Cover with cold boiled rice which has been seasoned with finely minced pimento, parsley and onion juice. Press the rice lightly to fill the mold. Loosen with a spatula and turn out on a salad plate garnished with lettuce or endive. Serve with French or mayonnaise dressing.

Cherry Fluff.—Soak two tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of water, place over hot water until the gelatin is dissolved. Now add two cupfuls of cherry juice, one-third of a cupful of sugar and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Set aside until the mixture begins to thicken, then beat well and add two-thirds of a cupful of cherries; other fruit may be used. Add three tablespoonfuls of sugar to two-thirds of a cupful of whipped cream and fold lightly into the fruit mixture. Turn into a mold and chill. Serve with soft custard, a fruit sauce, or cream. Garnish with whipped cream and cherries.

A FRIEND IN NEED A FRIEND INDEED

Writes Mrs. Hardee Regarding Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Calif.—"I must tell you that I am a true friend to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken it off and on for twenty years and it has helped me change from a delicate girl to a stout, healthy woman. When I was married I was sick all the time until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in bed much of my time with pains and had to have the doctor every month. One day I found a little book in my yard in Guthrie, Oklahoma, and I read it through and got the medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and took eight bottles and used the Sanative Wash. I at once began to get stronger. I have got many women to take it just by telling them what it has done for me. I have a young sister whom it has helped in the same way it helped me. I want you to know that I am a 'friend indeed,' for you are a 'friend indeed.'"

—Mrs. GEORGE HARDEE, 1043 Byram St., Los Angeles, California

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound be a "friend indeed" to you.

CHAPTER VI—Continued.

She colored up and bit her lip, and gave a queer little laugh. Then she grew very sober and grave, and said: "I know, dear. Perhaps I am talking more than I used to. But, you see, I've been thinking quite a lot, and I—I've learned some things. I'm trying to make you forget what I said—about your loving me more than him. That wasn't right, dear. Mother was wrong. She shouldn't try to influence you against your father. He is a good man; and there are none too many good men in the world—No, no, I won't say that," she broke off.

But she'd already said it, and, of course, I knew she was thinking of the violinist. I'm no child.

JUNE

Well, once more school is done, my trunk is all packed, and I'm ready to go to Andersonville. I leave tomorrow morning. But not as I left last year. Oh, no. It is very, very different. Why this year I'm really going as Mary. Honestly, Mother has turned me into Mary before I go. Now, what do you think of that? And if I've got to be Mary there and Mary here, too, when can I ever be Marie? Oh, I know I said I'd be willing to be Mary half, and maybe more than half, the time. But when it comes to really being Mary out of turn extra time, that is quite another thing.

And I am Mary.

Listen:
I've learned to cook. That's Mary. I've been studying astronomy. That's Mary.

I've learned to walk quietly, speak softly, laugh not too loudly, and to be a lady at all times. That's Mary.

And now, to add to all this, Mother has had me dress like Mary. Yes, she began two weeks ago. She came into my room one morning and said she wanted to look over my dresses and things; and I could see, by the way she frowned and bit her lip and tapped her foot on the floor, that she wasn't suited. She said:

"I think, my dear, that on Saturday we'll have to go in town shopping. Quite a number of these things will not do at all."

And I was so happy! Visions of new dresses and hats and shoes rose before me. And the pink headed girl came into my mind—though I didn't really have much hopes of that.

Well, we went shopping on Saturday, but—did we get the pink silk? We did not. We did get—yep! never guess what. We got two new gingham dresses, very plain and homely, and a pair of horrid, thick, low shoes. Why, I could have cried! I did "most cry as I exclaimed:

"Why Mother, those are Mary things!"

"Of course, they're Mary things," answered Mother, cheerfully. "That's what I meant to buy—Mary things, as you call them. Aren't you going to be Mary just next week? Of course, you are! And didn't you tell me last year, as soon as you got there, Miss Anderson objected to your clothing and bought new for you? Well, I am trying to see that she does not have to do that this year."

And then she bought me a brown serge suit and a hat so frightfully sensible that even Aunt Jane would love them, I know. And tomorrow I've got to put them on to go in.

Do you wonder that I say I am Mary already?

CHAPTER VII

When I Am Neither One.

Well, I came last night. I had on the brown suit and the sensible hat, and every turn of the wheels all day had been singing: "Mary, Mary, now you're Mary!" Why, Mother even called me Mary when she said good-by. She came to the junction with me just as she had before, and put me on the other train.

"Now, remember, dear, you're to try very hard to be a joy and a comfort to your father—just the little Mary that he wants you to be. Remember, he has been very kind to let you stay with me so long."

She cried when she kissed me just as she did before; but she didn't tell me this time to be sure and not love Father better than I did her. I noticed that. But, of course, I didn't say anything, though I might have told her easily that I knew nothing could ever make me love him better than I did her.

When we got to Andersonville, and the train rolled into the station, I stepped down from the cars and looked over to where the carriages were to find John and Aunt Jane. But they weren't there. There wasn't even the carriage there; and I can remember now just how my heart sort of felt sick inside of me when I thought that even Aunt Jane had forgotten, and that there wasn't anybody to meet me.

There was a beautiful big green automobile there, and I thought how I wished that had come to meet me; and I was just wondering what I should do, when all of a sudden somebody spoke my name. And who do you think it was? You'd never guess it in a month. It was Father. Yes, Father!

"Why, I could have hugged him, I was so glad. But of course I didn't, right before all those people. But he was so tall and handsome and splendid, and I felt so proud to be walking along the platform with him and letting folks see that he'd come to meet me! But I couldn't say anything—not anything, the way I wanted to; and all I could do was to stammer out:

"Why, where's Aunt Jane?"
And that's just the thing I didn't want to say; and I knew it the minute I'd said it. Why, it sounded as if I missed Aunt Jane, and wanted her instead of him, when all the time I was so pleased and excited to see him that I could hardly speak.

He just kind of smiled, and looked queer, and said that Aunt Jane—er—couldn't come. Then I felt sorry; for I saw, of course, that that was why he had come; not because he wanted to, but because Aunt Jane couldn't, so he had to. And I could have cried, all the while he was fixing it up about my trunk.

He turned then and led the way straight over to where the carriages were, and the next minute there was John touching his cap to me; only it was a brand-new John looking too sweet for anything in a chauffeur's cap and uniform. And, what do you think? He was helping me into that beautiful big green car before I knew it.

"Why, Father, Father!" I cried. "You don't mean—" I just couldn't finish; but he finished for me.

"It is ours—yes. Do you like it?"

"Like it!" I guess he didn't need to have me say any more. But I did say more. I just raved and raved over that car until Father's eyes crinkled all up in little smile wrinkles, and he said:

"I'm glad. I hoped you'd like it."

"I guess I do like it!" I cried. Then I went on to tell him how I thought

And She Is Pretty, and Everybody Loves Her.

It was the prettiest one I ever saw, and "way ahead of even Mr. Easterbrook's."

"And, pray, who is Mr. Easterbrook?" asked Father then. "The violinist, perhaps—eh?"

Now, wasn't it funny he should have remembered that there was a violinist? But, of course, I told him no, it wasn't the violinist. It was another one that took Mother to ride, the one I told him about in the Christmas letter; and he was very rich, and had two perfectly beautiful cars; and I was going on to tell more—how he didn't take Mother now—but I didn't get a chance, for Father interrupted, and said, "Yes, yes, to be sure." And he showed he wasn't interested, for all the little smile wrinkles were gone, and he looked stern and dignified, more like he used to. And he went on to say that, as we had almost reached home, he had better explain right away that Aunt Jane was no longer living there; that his cousin from the West, Mrs. Whitney, was keeping house for him now. She was a very nice lady, and he hoped I would like her. And I might call her "Cousin Grace."

And before I could even draw breath to ask any questions, we were home; and a real pretty lady, with a light-blue dress on, was helping me out of the car, and kissing me as she did so.

Now, do you wonder that I have been rubbing my eyes and wondering if I was really I, and if this was Andersonville?

ONE WEEK LATER

It isn't a dream. It's all really, truly true—everything: Father coming to meet me, the lovely automobile, and the pretty lady in the light-blue dress, who kissed me. And when I went downstairs the next morning I found out it was real, specially the pretty lady; for she kissed me again, and said she hoped I'd be happy there.

And she told me to amuse myself any way I liked, and said, if I wanted to, I might run over to see some of the girls, but not to make any plans for the afternoon, for she was going to take me to ride.

Now, what do you think of that? Go to see the girls in the morning, and take a ride—an automobile ride!—in the afternoon. In Andersonville! Why, I couldn't believe my ears. Of course, I was wild and crazy with delight—but it was all so different. Why, I began to think almost that I was Marie, and not Mary at all.

And it's been that way the whole week through. I've had a beautiful time. I've been so excited! And Mother is excited, too. Of course, I wrote her and told her all about it right away. And she wrote right back and wanted to know everything—everything I could tell her; all the little things. And she was so interested in Cousin Grace, and wanted to know all about her; said she never heard of her before, and was she Father's own cousin, and how old she was, and was she pretty, and was Father around the house more now, and did I see a lot of him? She thought from something I said that I did.

I've just been writing her again, and I could tell her more now, of course, than I could in that first letter. I've been here a whole week, and, of course, I know more about things, and have done more.

I told her that Cousin Grace wasn't really Father's cousin at all, so it wasn't any wonder she hadn't ever heard of her. She was the wife of Father's third cousin who went to South America six years ago and caught the fever and died there. So this Mrs. Whitney isn't really any relation of his at all. But he'd always known her, even before she married his cousin; and so, when her husband died, and she didn't have any home, he asked her to come here.

I don't know why Aunt Jane went away, but she's been gone 'most four months now, they say here. Nellie told me. Nellie is the maid—I mean hired girl—here now. (I will keep forgetting that I'm Mary now and must use the Mary words here.)

I told Mother that she (Cousin Grace) was quite old, but not so old as Aunt Jane. And she is pretty, and everybody loves her. I think even Father likes to have her around better than he did his own sister Jane, for he sometimes stays around quite a lot now—after meals, and in the evening, I mean. And that's what I told Mother. Of course, he still likes his stars the best of anything, but not quite as well as he used to, maybe—not to give all his time to them.

I forgot to say that Father is going to let me go back to school again this year ahead of his time, just as he did last year. So you see, really, I'm here only a little bit of a while, as it is now, and it's no wonder I keep forgetting I am Mary.

TWO WEEKS LATER

I understand it all now—everything: why the house is different, and Father, and everything. And it is Cousin Grace, and it is a love story.

Father is in love with her.

Now I guess I shall have something for this book!

It seems funny now that I didn't think of it at first. But I didn't—not until I heard Nellie and her beau talking about it. Nellie said she wasn't the only one in the house that was going to get married. And when he asked her what she meant, she said it was Dr. Anderson and Mrs. Whitney. That anybody could see it that wasn't as blind as a bat.

My, but wasn't I excited? I just guess I was. And, of course, I saw that I had been blind as a bat. But I began to open my eyes after that, and watch—not disagreeably, you know, but just glad and interested, and on account of the book.

And I saw:
That Father stayed in the house a lot more than he used to.

That he actually asked Cousin Grace and me to play for him several times.

That he went with us to the Sunday school picnic. (I never saw Father at a picnic before, and I don't believe he ever saw himself at one.)

That—oh, I don't know, but a whole lot of little things that I can't remember; but they were all unmistakable, very unmistakable. And I wondered, when I saw it all, that I had been as blind as a bat before.

When I wrote Mother I told her all about it—the signs and symptoms, I mean, and how different and thawed-out Father was; and I asked if she didn't think it was so, too. But she didn't answer that part. She didn't write much, anyway. It was an awfully snippy letter; but she said she had a headache and didn't feel at all well. So that was the reason, probably, why she didn't say more—about Father's love affair, I mean. She only said she was glad, she was sure, if Father had found an estimable woman to make a home for him, and she hoped they'd be happy. Then she went on talking about something else. And she didn't write much more, anyway, about anything.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

BELIEVE IN OLD PROPHECY

Koreans Flock to Secure Holdings in What They Are Satisfied Is to Be Great City.

Kelyong, the lonely mountain of Korea, experienced a real-estate boom that made the old-town promoter pale into insignificance. On a tiny piece of land on the mountain side were encamped 2,562 persons, forming 518 households, while hundreds more were gathered at the base, bidding high prices for the privilege of buying a bit of land among the favored.

The Korean prophet, Chyong Kam, whose writings have been preserved in the ancestral mausoleum of the one-time Imperial family of Korea, long ago prophesied that Mount Kelyong would be chosen as the religious center of the sect which he founded and of the peninsula. His prophecy has recently been given great publicity, it is reported, and thousands of Koreans are flocking to the mountain, firm in their belief that it is to be one of the greatest cities of the world and that they are "getting in on the ground floor."

Work in His Lot.

The eight-hour working day is unknown in the rural districts of the Balkans. The peasant works from sunrise until after dark. He is so bent and weather-scarred that he looks twice his age after thirty. In some cases he belongs to nomadic tribes and leads an existence unknown in the country district of England or America. At night one often passes whole wagon loads of them on the road going from town to town. Every man is asleep on the top of his load and is not disturbed by thoughts of burglars or highwaymen.

Farmers of Forty Centuries

By Rev. Neumeier

No matter what we might have to say concerning the backwardness of the Yellow Race, China, Korea and Japan (where the Yellow Race lives) have been able to maintain a civilization for forty centuries. To make it possible for 500,000,000 people to have an unimpaired inheritance, moving with momentum acquired through 4,000 years; a people morally and intellectually strong, mechanically capable, who are awakening to a utilization of all the possibilities which science and invention, during recent years, have brought to western nations; and a people who have long dearly loved peace, is indeed an achievement worthy of note.

The people of these countries mostly live in small hamlets and villages. Generally a blood relationship forms a community, with the people living in hamlets and villages, and farming the surrounding country. In the Far East not many cities are to be found, especially not as many and of the same type as in America. Most of the people live in the rural sections, and this has been true for all the centuries of their existence. They have not been drifting to cities, as in the western nations.

One of the outstanding factors in the Far East is the high maintenance efficiency of the people. Some families of seven live off 2.5 acres of land. From 400 to 500 people could live on an average Illinois farm. No country in the world has so small a proportion of productive land in comparison with size and population as Japan. Nitobe, a noted Japanese, claims that if all the productive land were in one farm, and good roads, around it, a person could go around this Japanese farm land in twelve hours with a good automobile. 70% of the agricultural class in Japan own and cultivate less than 2.5 acres of land, and 12 acres is considered a very respectable holding. This maintenance efficiency is largely due to the method of farming. The people save and produce all possible fertilizer they can. They dig up canal mud and haul it over the fields. They, however, have few animals to feed, since most of the work is done by hand, even much of the transportation. Then, too, they live off fish, and do not feed animals for meat. The Yellow Race consumes more fish than the rest of the world put together.

The people of the Far East are very economical, and save everything they can. They live largely of rice, fruit, vegetables, tea, and some grain. They preserve fruits and vegetables for winter use, and do not even waste the leaves and stems of vegetables. If they cannot be eaten, they are put into the manure pots. The pear trees, grape vines and other fruit trees are trained so as to grow on a small space and produce as much as possible. Things are planted very close together, and one crop after the other, and the crops are rotated.

Yet, while all this is true, they have many famines, and we sometimes wonder why. There are several reasons for this. Nearly half of the area of China is in graveyards. The practice of preserving and keeping up the graves of dead ancestors grows out of ancestor worship, which partly goes back to superstition. Not only does it take space for their graves, but a great deal of time to keep them up. Many sections have dry seasons, some of which is due to the lack of trees to draw the moisture. Then (even though they produce as much fertilizer as they can), they are limited in material for this purpose, for everything that can be used for fuel is thus utilized, even roots, stems, straw and charcoal. Wood is mostly used up, and they are too superstitious and afraid to go under the ground to dig up coal. Everything in China is cooked, even water, and this takes a great deal of fuel. The farm implements are crude, and the cultivation of crops often inefficient. These are some of the causes of the famines.

Considering these facts mentioned, and then think of how thickly these countries are populated (for nearly one-fourth of the population of the world is in China), and that they have main-

FRANKFORT BOY HONORED

William Green of Frankfort, a young student at Joliet high school, enjoys the unique distinction of having a most signal honor conferred upon him. He was recently notified of his election to the presidency of the class in Biology at Joliet high. In view of his extreme youth, 14 years, the honor bestowed upon him is very unusual and most gratifying. The young man's scholastic attainments have been phenomenal and rapid, and his fellow townsmen are very proud that these fresh laurels have been added to the brow of a Frankfort boy. He presided in his new office at Joliet last Wednesday with distinction, dignity and grace. May his upward and onward course continue unchecked. Frankfort is proud of her boys of promise.

To the Ladies' Aid, the Church Supper Committee, the Cake Sale Committee and a Few Others

THIS newspaper is always ready to help you in every legitimate way. It stands for everything that is good in this community and it supports it liberally. BUT—it has only two sources of revenue—ADVERTISING and SUBSCRIPTIONS. Now when you send in a notice that there is going to be a rummage sale, a cake sale, or an entertainment for your benefit on a certain day at a certain place and the price of tickets is so much, it is pure advertising. That's why you send it to the newspaper. You want to advertise it to the people.

For years newspapers have been giving these notices to you free. Oftentimes these notices actually cost the newspapers from one to two dollars. Do you know that it costs at least $4 just to set a column of news? That is just the composition. It does not include the cost of putting it in the forms, making up, printing, etc. And yet for years you have been asking the papers to give you this space free.

Do you know of any business that is giving things away free these days? Go down to the drug store and try to get an ice cream soda free just because you belong to some organization.

If the editor comes around to your sale you expect him to pay good old gold dollars for his ticket, his supper or his cake, don't you? And he has to pay that same kind of gold to the men in his office. They expect it on Saturday night. When you get something for nothing it is not generally appreciated. We don't say that is true in this case, but it is certain that the newspapers have for years been giving away their space free.

And it MUST stop. The printing business has been hard hit. While newspaper has come down a little in cost, it is still higher than before the war. Wages have gone up and hours per week have been shortened. Machinery has doubled and trebled in price.

It must be confessed that newspapers haven't for a long time been conducted on good business lines. It's the editor's fault. He doesn't blame anybody else. But since the war he has learned a few things. He knows that everything has gone up, and what's more, he has learned that his creditors expect him to pay his bills promptly and with real money. He has also learned that he is entitled to a living wage, the same as his men. He has been compelled to do business in a businesslike way.

It certainly isn't business to give your product away free. No other business does it, so why should a newspaper? This newspaper is willing to co-operate and help, and it will give a moderate amount of free publicity to entertainments and suppers providing advertising space is purchased. It's fair, isn't it? Put yourself in our place. You expect a full return for every ticket you sell. Why shouldn't an editor expect full return for his advertising space?

Think it over. We know that it is only necessary for our readers to peruse this little talk to see the justice of our contention. So in the future please don't ask us to insert notices free, but pay for advertising space the same as you expect the people to pay for your tickets to your affairs. In ALL fairness—look at it from both sides.

Fred Amrhein is an unhappy man. Not only is he no longer master of his home. He has been evicted from it and is in jail at Beardstown. And the battle is to be laid to woman. She is his wife and she bobbed her hair. So he slapped her. "When a man's wife bobs her hair it's time for a husband to get out," he mournfully told his friends. Then the police took him before Justice of the Peace Newberry, who fined him $10 and costs. He hasn't paid yet, but is in jail wondering if it's worth the price. ## PRIVACY OF A GOLDFISH "Uncle" Shows Old Time Travel Ways

Ruth Evelyn Ziegler, whose poses as "Autumn," "Mother," etc., have pleased patrons of a well-known circus, has just posed in court in a matrimonial scene. When she married her husband, she and he made their home in her mother-in-law's vocal studio in the Metropolitan Opera house, New York. Her testimony in seeking to divorce William J. Ziegler, a critic, is reminiscent of the "Seven Keys to Baldpate." "I couldn't sleep late in the mornings because the pupils would begin to arrive at seven or eight," she declared. "All told, seven individuals had keys to the studio. I had no privacy. I couldn't change clothes or take a bath without fear of some one's entering suddenly. I protested to my husband, but he thought it was all right. He read most of the time anyway. I had about as much privacy as a goldfish."

Perfectly Happy.

"How did you interest that aristocratic old millionaire? He has always been considered a most difficult man to entertain." "Oh, he had the time of his life. We got him busy pitching horseshoes."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nearly as spry as the time he drove his first team of oxen, at two miles an hour, from Indianapolis to Seattle seventy years ago, "Uncle Ezra" Meeker reached Chicago to be honored guest at the American Electric Railway convention on the Municipal pier. Uncle Ezra, ninety-two, mounts stallions two at a time and waxes with when dubbed "Grandpa" by the young. A short time ago he rode in an airplane across the State of Washington at eighty miles per hour. "That there's about my speed," he approved.

He and his ox team were part of an exhibit illustrating antiquated methods of transportation.

To Secretaries of Local Organizations

Why not let this newspaper save you labor?

Labor-saving devices are the modern methods.

They spell efficiency.

Why stay in the old rut?

This is what you have been doing for years—wasting your time and energy in sending out separate notices of meetings regarding your lodge to each member. This means that you have to address from 50 to 100 postal cards or envelopes in addition to preparing the notices for mailing out.

Why not put your notice in an advertisement in this paper? You could do it for $1.25 and save all that labor.

It's the modern way! It's the way most lodges are doing in the up-to-date communities.

What would be more interesting in this paper than a column or two of such notices? Your members would look for this feature in every issue. And then, think of the labor it would save you.

Just write out one notice and bring it to us. That's all. Simple, isn't it? You bet. Try it and you won't do it any other way.

We are here to serve you and ready to make suggestions.

A Newspaper's TWO Sources of Revenue

Subscriptions and Advertising Are the Only Sources of Revenue a Newspaper Has and Often the Subscriptions Do Not Pay for the Cost of White Paper

Advertising today, especially in newspapers, is the greatest business getter there is. This is acknowledged by men who know. People read advertisements in newspapers. They have been educated to do so. Every merchant in our town ought to advertise. You remember the story about John Wanamaker? The first day he was in business his receipts were $24.64. He kept the 64 cents and spent the $24 the next day in advertising. We all can't duplicate this feat, but according to the best statistics available three per cent of the gross sales should be put aside for advertising.

Possibly you will say, "I don't need to advertise. I've been in this town thirty years and everybody knows me."

Probably they do, but did you ever stop to think of the sales you lose because your fellow competitor advertises? He may advertise the same goods you have in your stock, but the people don't know you have them. The other fellow gets the sale because he advertises. And then, how much more business you would do if you did advertise?

We know of one merchant who advertised a lot of goods at 19 cents a yard. They cost him 27 cents. He took a clean loss, but while the sale was going on he could buy new goods at 12 cents. He put them in with the other goods and the result was that he cleaned his shelves of the old goods and he broke even on the deal. Advertising and good buying liquidated his stock without a loss.

We can't all be John Wanamakers, but we all can advertise in proportion to our business. Results will be sure if you advertise honestly and give service. A newspaper can bring people to your store, but it can't make people buy your goods. Your clerks must do that, and it depends on the service you give as to how successful your business will be.

What is done in the big cities can be done right here in this town if you will show the pep, give the service and advertise. Make business good. You can do it through this newspaper.

Recipe of Success.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said in a Y. M. C. A. success talk in New York: "Brilliance without energy is no good. Ability without action is no good."

Mr. Rockefeller thumped the table with his fist.

"It is not enough," he cried, "for a man to know a good thing when he sees it. He must also seize it."

Remarkable Recovery Case in Serious Kidney Case.

This letter, from George Roberts of Church street, Malpas, Cheshire, England, sounds almost unbelievable, yet every word is true and was signed before a notary public.

For eleven years I suffered acute pain and sickness. I consulted several prominent doctors and each one had a different opinion. At last I was put under X-rays and it was found I was suffering from gall stones. My doctors and the specialist at the Royal Infirmary, Chester, told me they were not porous and no medicine in the world would move them, so there remained nothing for it but an operation. When my wife heard this she told me to get Dodd's Kidney Pills, as they had cured her when she suffered from black jaundice and gall stones. It is now nineteen years since my wife felt any symptoms of these troubles. I purchased a quantity of Dodd's Kidney Pills and took them according to directions. This is seven years ago and I have had no return of the trouble.

It was a surprise for all the doctors. They had to admit the fact as I was under the X-rays several times, and for a while they did not know what to make of it, until they found they had disappeared altogether. They asked me what I had been taking and were not pleased when I told them Dodd's Kidney Pills. I am enjoying the best of health and have lost no time through sickness. I also suffered with rheumatism as well as gall stones. Now I was cured by taking Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I declare the above statement to be true," declared at White Church in the County of Salop this fourth day of March, 1922, A. W. Smith, a Commissioner for Catholicism.

The genuine DODD'S—three D's in name—are sold by every good druggist. If your druggist isn't stocked up, send for a large box to Dodd's Medicine Company, Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Invariable Rule.

"You still take your morning bath, I suppose?"

"Never miss it, my boy! Sometimes I take it hot, sometimes cold, and when I'm in a rush I take it for granted."

The easier the job, the harder to get it. This illustrates the perversity of existence.

BEND OF THE ROAD

WHETHER in the work-a-day world, in the lecture room, or in some chosen field of diversion where honor is at stake, you may sometimes become depressed at your slow progress in attaining your heart's fondest wishes.

Your friends seem to go sailing on favorable tides, while you are beset by adverse currents and opposing gales. Or you may be doggedly climbing steep hills while they are striding merrily on a level road with the wind at their back, the sunshine playing hide-and-seek among the gleaming leaves, while the birds redouble their songs to give encouragement and make the journey pleasant.

Ferret-faced men and bobbed-haired, spectacled girls are making their mark, while you with your good-looking features, your stout and healthy body, of which you are admittedly vain, seem all the while to be flitting with open failure, unable to dodge it, in spite of your desire to do so.

Or again, in your frequent moods of dejection, you may fancy that Fate has a grudge against you, and is fully determined to hold you in bondage until the final farthing has been paid, all of which, if you will soberly reflect, is but an absurd phantasm of the mind.

If you have good sense without vanity, a penetrating mind and a disposition to "live and let others live" with a fair amount of energy, there is no reason at all why you should complain.

To deal honestly with yourself in such matters, compare your temperament, manners, industry and dress

CLOTHES, CONFIDENCE

MARK TWAIN could afford to indulge his delight in unusual and fantastic clothes. He was a genius.

If John D. Rockefeller chose to walk down Broadway in a suit of blue jeans it would not affect his financial standing, although it might create surprise, for his custom is to dress himself rather neatly.

Russell Sage wore the same straw hat for fifteen years, and was able at the same time to get more interest on a thousand dollar investment than almost anybody else in Wall street.

But Sage was an exception. And when he was just out of Troy, beginning his long climb in New York, he dressed more carefully.

The importance of good clothes is the confidence they inspire, not only in the wearer, but in those with whom he comes into contact.

The well dressed man impresses others with a belief in his competence. The man in rusty and baggy trousers is viewed with an eye of suspicion.

"If he is able, why doesn't he dress well?" asks the world.

To the job seeker nothing is so much of an asset as appearance.

He need not be dressed as the writer of the fashions-for-men columns would dictate, but his clothes should be whole and clean, and not three or four years behind the style.

One reason for this is that competent men usually take a pride in their personal appearance and dress well. And the world takes its impressions from custom.

Of course, dressing too well is as bad as dressing too poorly. The flashy clad youth who wears cheap imitations of ultra stylish garments is usually set down as a tin horn gambler, or a horse race follower, and stands a small chance of getting any good job.

But the youth who is careful about buying and keeping his clothes, and who looks as well as he can, will get at least consideration. After that, provided there is any job to get, whether he gets it or not depends upon his manner. And his manner is sure to be the more impressive if he is well dressed than if he is shabbily clad.

GOOD EATING

CARROTS are a valuable food and recent discoveries have proven that they contain the soluble vitamin so necessary for growth and health. Carrots in soup and salads, as a vegetable, in pudding or pie, as pickles and conserve—who shall call them the humble vegetable?

Carrot Pie.

Take one cupful of mashed cooked carrot, add one cupful of milk, one beaten egg, three tablespoonfuls of molasses, salt, mace, cinnamon and nutmeg to taste and one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix the crust and bake as pumpkin pie.

Carrot and Apple Salad.

Take one cupful each of grated carrot and apple, one small onion grated, a stalk of celery finely chopped, one-fourth cupful of walnut meats broken in bits, salt, pepper and a highly seasoned boiled dressing. Let stand to season for an hour or more and serve on lettuce with a spoonful of mayonnaise.

Carrot Sponge.

Take one cupful of grated raw carrot, one-third of a cupful of sugar, one of milk, two tablespoonfuls of gelatin, the white of an egg, salt and vanilla to taste. Heat the milk and add the sugar. Soak the gelatin in four tablespoonfuls of water, dissolve over heat, then add the milk. Set the mixture aside until it begins to harden around the edges. Beat it well with an egg beater and add the grated carrot, vanilla and fold in the well beaten egg white; turn into a mold. Serve with a soft custard.

MY WANTS

I DO not want a fortune great;
I do not seek the cares of state,
With all their glitter and their glare,
And wicked schemes afloat in air,
I do not yearn for power or place;
Nor would I take part in the race
For gold—I only ask that I
May sow good will while passing by;
And that when I am laid below
The cool, green sod, where daisies blow,
Some one will pause a bit, and then
Declare: "He helped his fellowmen."

I do not covet mansions grand,
Nor acres broad on every hand;
I do not yearn for jewels bright;
To dazzle my poor neighbor's sight;
I do not yearn to take command,
And order men on every hand—I only ask that I may go
Along a road where flowers blow,
And dying, have men pause and say:
"He scattered sunshine all the way."

Let others dig and delve for gold;
Let others place of power hold;
Let others with a lordly air,
Stand forth within the limelight's
glare;
Let others trade on hopes and fears
And profit by the sob's and tears
Of those they wreck. I only ask
The strength to do each daily task,
Then homeward go with heart elate
And greet my loved ones at the gate;
Then, dying, have men pause a while
And say: "He gave the world a smile."

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Why be bothered with these troubles. They are caused by poor lubricating oil—cheap oil—or running your car for thousands of miles without draining the crank case.

Providing your car is in good mechanical condition, you can keep it that way by using the correct grade of Gargoyle Mobiloil, and by draining the crank case every 800 to 1,000 miles.

A Five-Minute Sermon on Church Advertising

DID you ever think of the church as a business proposition? Why should a church always be considered a subject for charity? How often have you heard men say: "I don't go to church very often, but when I do go they are always begging for money. That's the reason I don't go oftener."

It's a narrow point of view, of course, for a church needs money to run it, just the same as a business. But why shouldn't a church be run as a business and be independent and not dependent? It can be, but business methods must be adopted.

All successful businesses advertise. The greatest competitor of the church on Sundays—the movies—advertises liberally. You have attractions in your church. You have a story to tell. You have a minister who can preach with a punch. The "regulars" may know it, but it isn't the "regulars" you want to reach—it's the "irregulars" and the "neverusers." That's where the church has got to grow. And you have got to go after them the same as the business houses go after business.

You know that every business man keeps track of his sales every week and every month and he compares them with a year ago. And if he isn't running ahead he wants to know why. Do the churches keep track of their attendance? They know what the subscriptions are, for that's vital; yet increased attendance would mean increased subscriptions.

The church should cease to be DEpendent. It should go after business Ministers who have tried it have been well compensated. Supposing this advertisement should appear in this paper this week:

FIRST REFORMED CHURCH

This Sunday Evening at 7:45

THE REV. JOHN KNOX ALLEN, D. D.

will preach on "OUR TOWN"

Front Seats Free.

Rear Seats, Ten Cents Each.

You'll be surprised. Come out and hear a worth-while sermon. A special invitation to all. We would like to see YOU in church. Special music.

Don't you think it would help? Wouldn't it start some talk about the church? Wouldn't the people say, "Well, I guess the church people are waking up?" The cost of the advertisement would be small, but the results would be big.

Think it over. Why shouldn't our churches stand on their own feet and be run in a businesslike way? Why shouldn't the people be educated to the fact that it takes money to run a church, that it is not a charity organization and that people ARE EXPECTED to contribute to it.

What would this town be without churches? You would not live in it, for it wouldn't be a fit place to live in. You need the church. The church needs you and the church needs advertising.
